

A Masonic Battlefield Tour

“In great deeds something abides. On great fields something stays.”

Brother Maj. Gen. Joshua Lawrence Chamberlain

You probably know the Friend to Friend Masonic Memorial, you may know the story, and may also be able to name the two Masons depicted, but did you know that it was not the only act of Masonic Charity that occurred during the Battle of Gettysburg? It is estimated that of the approximately 164,000 troops at Gettysburg at least 6,500 were Freemasons. Many of them performed great deeds on those fields. Come join us to hear some of their stories on the very ground where they took place. (Note: This is a repeat of the 2018 tour, for those who missed it.)
